Project contribution:

This project have taught me a lot about web development, I have Learnt new concepts about dynamic typed languages like JavaScript. We all collaborated to make this project as clean and tidy as possible. All my colleagues' contributions have affected the project amazingly. They have done the following tasks:

Mohammed have done the report and documented the class diagrams and have taken screenshots for the project to document the application design. Also he contributed to testing. He have done basically 25% of the project.

Abdullah have done the seller user interface UI and tested all the use cases required for this project. He also did the demonstration video. Furthermore he defined the theme of the website. Also he checked that everything was ready to be submitted. 35% of the work is done by him.

I have done the remaining things in this project which consists of the following tasks:

1- Implementation of classes repositories and backend.
2- Implementation of the pages of the website.
3- Leading the development process to make sure everything is going well.

In the end all of us did our best to make this project shine and look great. Also, the tasks mentioned above are the assigned tasks to the team members, not mentioning the great assistance and knowledge shared between each team member when needed. We have done our best, and we are hoping for the best.
